

InternSync

The first professional network for high schoolers

What You Need to Believe

1. Ambition is getting younger, not older
2. The next LinkedIn won't look like LinkedIn
3. COPPA compliance is a structural moat, not a bug

Only 2% of high schoolers from 15.5 million complete internships.

For Students

The supply and demand both exist.
The bridge is broken.

For Businesses

Small businesses need affordable talent but have no way to find or vet students.

LinkedIn, Indeed, and ZipRecruiter exclude users under 18.

For first-gen and immigrant students with no family network, that means no internships, no extracurriculars, no competitive college application.

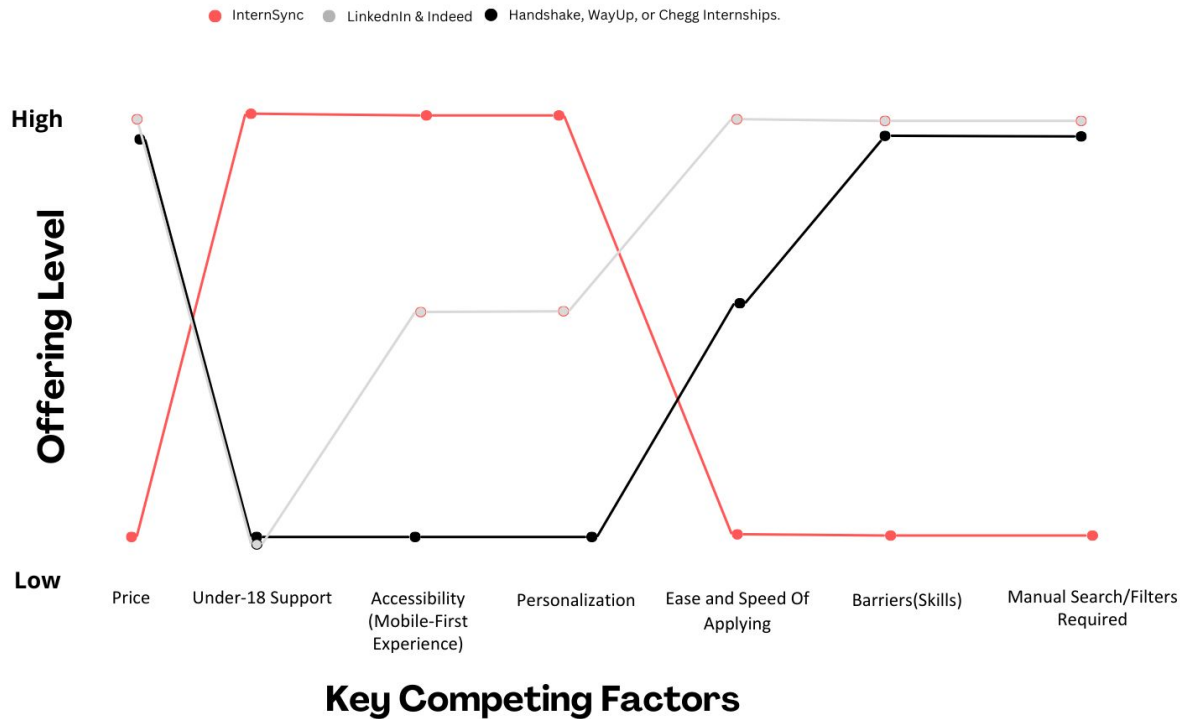

Small businesses struggle.

- Need affordable, motivated talent.
- No centralized way to find or manage interns.

15.5M students. The bridge doesn't exist. Until now.

- Year 2: $20,000 \text{ students} \times $8 \times 12 + 800 \text{ businesses} \times $100 \times 12 = $1.92\text{M} + $960\text{k} = $2.88\text{M}$
- Year 3: $75,000 \text{ students} \times $8 \times 12 + 2,500 \text{ businesses} \times $100 \times 12 = $7.2\text{M} + $3\text{M} = $10.2\text{M}$
